The Descendants of Charles Sweeney from Ireland and later from the Scranton/Hawley area of Pennsylvania

A large number of Irishmen came to America during the 1840's, including Charles Sweeney. Although no actual date is given for his departure from Ireland, it is known that he was one of four million Irishmen accounted for in the depletion of the Irish population. The cause of the mass exodus was due to a potato blight, known as the "Potato Famine", which destroyed the staple food of Ireland. Many starved to death while over one million five hundred thousand emigrated, many going to America.

Because of the "Famine", many families found it necessary to search for work elsewhere. In America, they thought they might find a second chance. The biggest obstacle was the voyage across the sea. Passage in those days, by ship of course, took anywhere from fifty to eighty days depending on the weather. Passengers arrived at their port of embarkation sometimes weeks in advance hoping to find passage for what would likely be a difficult trip.

Once aboard, the passengers faced the weather that the sea dished out and such diseases as cholera and dysentary. Passage for a family of eight in 1885 was 24 pounds. The ship was required only to provide a certain daily ration of food and water. Bedding, cooking utensils and other personal items had to be provided by the paggengers themselves.

A record of the ships passengers (customs records at the point of arrival) would usually give names of the family members making the voyage, their ages, where they were coming from and going to and their profession in their home country. The frequency with which Irish passenger lists are filled with "labourers" and "farmers" can be accounted for by the fact that during these years skilled labourers were banned from leaving Ireland. They were desperately needed to power Britain's industrial revolution.

Many families tried to make the voyage together while, in some instances, the head of the family would make the trip first and send for his family after he gained employment and earned enought money to pay for their passage.

In America, as we hear in many traditional American folk songs, a large number of Irishmen worked building railroads and digging canals. It is said that Charles Sweeney and his family lived near Hawley, Pennsylvania, after arriving in America, and worked on the contruction of the Delaware and Hudson Canal and that it was through their employment that they met the Boyd family that two of the Sweeney children met and married.

No records have been found relating to Charles Sweeney's trip to America or what happened to him in America. The death certificate for his son, Charles J. Sweeney, only shows that he was born in Ireland and that his wife's name was Margaret. Charles and Margaret Sweeney had a daughter, Jane, whose newspaper obituary tells that she was born in County Mayo, Ireland and was brought to this country when she was only three months old. However, no other records concerning her have been located so no dates can be assigned for the family's arrival in this country.

Charles J. Sweeney, the son of Charles and Margaret Sweeney, was born in Scranton, Pennsylvania, according to his death certificate, so the assumption that the family lived near Hawley, Pa. can be assumed correct.

The known issue of Charles and Margaret Sweeney is listed below:

i. Jane, b. County Mayo, Ireland; d. Pennsylvania; mar. John Donnelly

ii. Charles James, b. c.1858, Scranton, Pa.; d. December 20, 1891, Rosendale, N.Y.; mar. Elizabeth Boyd

iii. Sarah, b. January 4, 1859; d. 1938, Schenectady, N.Y.; mar. Peter Boyd

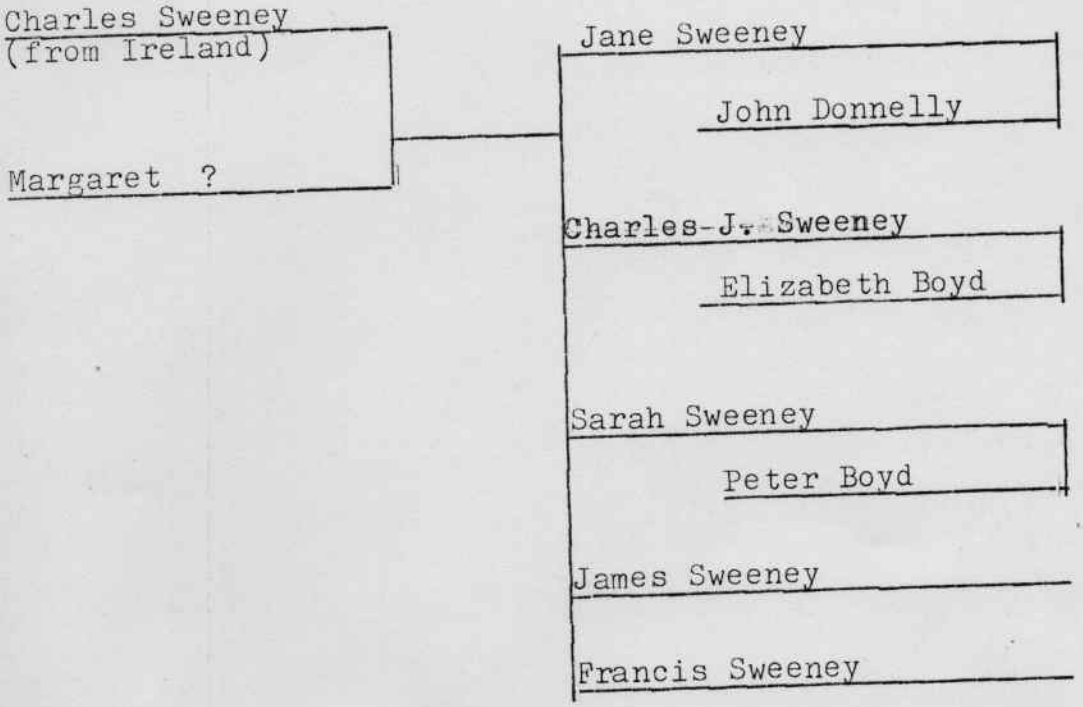
1st Generation



Jane Sweeney, the daughter of Charles and Margaret Sweeney, was born in County Mayo, Ireland. She was brought to this country when she was three months old.

She married John Donnelly and they had one son, James, listed below.

It is known that during their married lives and Donnellys lived in Pennsylvania and that Jane Sweeney Donnelly died sometime before the year 1891 (as her brother Charles attended her funeral and he died in that year).

Jane Sweeney Donnelly is buried in Hyde Park Catholic Cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. DONNELLY.

The death of Mrs. Donnelly, wife of John Donnelly, of Oak street, took place at one o'clock on Sunday morning last. The deceased lady succumbed to a pulmonary complaint, contracted by a cold, after a brief illness of ten days.

Mrs. Donnelly was an affectionate mother, as well as a loving and devoted wife, whose exemplary Christian life as a wife and mother endeared her to the hearts of all those who enjoyed the pleasure of her acquaintance.

Mrs. Donnelly was born in County Mayo, Ireland, and was brought to this country when only a child, three months old. She lived in Hawley, till she became wedded to Mr. Donnelly; since then she has resided in this city. Among the many friends from Hawley, that attended the funeral which took place on Wednesday last at 3 p. m. were Peter and John Gibbons. From New York State, Mr. and Mrs. E. Boyd and Charles Sweeney, brother of the deceased. From Pittston Mr. and Mrs. F. Callahan and daughter. The funeral was very large, there being 80 carriages in line.

Interment took place at the Hyde Park Catholic Cemetery. To the surviving husband and his only child we extend our sympathy and heart felt condolence now in their bereavement. She died a bright example to all those who survive her, and may the Lord have mercy on her soul.

Charles James Sweeney, the son of Charles and Margaret Sweeney, was born in Scranton, Pennsylvania about the year 1858. His mother's maiden name is not known.

He married Elizabeth Boyd at St. Peter's Church in Rosendale, N.Y., October 6, 1880. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. O'Flaherty with James Boyd and Bridget Garry as witnesses.

Elizabeth Boyd, the daughter of Peter and Marcella Boyd, was born in Rosendale, N.Y., August 25, 1859 and was baptized at St. Mary's Church, Kingston, N.Y., September 3, 1859.

During their marriage, Charles and Elizabeth Sweeney lived in Rosendale, N.Y. It is said that Charles was a heavy drinker and died because of it on December 20, 1891, in Rosendale, N.Y., at the age of 32 years and 6 months. He is buried in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rosendale, N.Y. in Section D, Plot 92 (a plot owned by his father-in-law, Peter Boyd). The death certificate for Charles J. Sweeney listed cause of death as Pluro Pneumonia and the duration of his illness was 6 days.

Worked in a limestone mine

After the death of her husband, Elizabeth Boyd Sweeney, left with four sons aged 10, 7, 6, and 2, worked in Rosendale and later in Schenectady, N.Y. as a housekeeper, seamstress and midwife in order to support her family.

Elizabeth Sweeney later moved to Ilion where she continued to work as a domestic and lived with her son, John J. Sweeney, at 10 Maple Place. She died there on July 31, 1940 at the age of 80 years and 11 months. She is buried in St. Agnes Cemetery, Ilion, N.Y.

The children of Charles J. and Elizabeth Boyd Sweeney are listed below.

i. Peter J., b. June 27, 1881, Rosendale, N.Y.; d. 1962 Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; mar. Anne

ii. James John, b. March 26, 1884, Rosendale, N.Y.; d. March 23 1928, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; mar. Mary

20.) James John Sweeney, the son of Charles James and Elizabeth Boyd Sweeney, was born in Rosendale, New York, 26 March 1884 and was baptized at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, New York, 30 March 1884 by Rev. Reuben Parsons with James Garry and Marcella Boyd as sponsors.

He married but all that is known about his wife is that her first name was Mary. It is said that she was very dark and thought to have been either French or Cuban and that she had a child by a previous marriage. Neither of these statements have been verified, yet. Her mother-in-law, Elizabeth Sweeney, sometimes "caustic", referred to her as "nigger".

James and Mary Sweeney lived at 67 Academy Street, Poughkeepsie, New York for two years before James' death.

James John Sweeney died at Mt. Vernon Hospital, Mt. Vernon, New York, 23 March 1928 and is buried in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rosendale, New York in section D, plot 92 (the plot owned by his grandfather, Peter Boyd).

It is said that at one time James Sweeney worked for the Roosevelts at Hyde Park and, at the time of his death, was the manager of the Ritz Theatre in Poughkeepsie.

Nothing is known about Mary Sweeney after the death of James. It is said that they had no children of their own.

A family story is that James had a twin brother who died shortly after birth, but this has not been substantiated.

FUNERAL FOR CHIEF WRIGHT — Annunciation Church, Ilion, was scene of neral Mass for Ilion Fire Chief Richard Wright yesterday. Casket was borne by fire department pumper while volunteer firemen and village officials formed a guard of honor.

Ilion Pays Final Tribute To Fire Chief Richard Wright

ILION — Ilion paid final tribute to its fire chief, Richard Wright, yesterday.

The funeral cortege, enroute to a Mass of Christian Burial in Annunciation Church, paused in front of Central Fire Station where two blasts of the fire whistle signaled Chief Wright's "last alarm."

In the procession through downtown Ilion were members of the regular fire partment who served as bearers, the n Volunteer Fire Department and rs of the Ilion Moose Lodge and his family.

The casket was borne atop a Fire Department pumper to the church. Church bells tolled and the carillon in the First United Methodist Church played patriotic and sacred hymns as the funeral procession passed.

Chief Wright had been head of the Ilion Fire Department for 21 years and had been a fireman for 30 years. He was Ilion's Good Citizen of the Year in 1975.

Village officials, led by Mayor James Garnsey and the village board, formed a guard of honor as firemen bore the casket into the church shortly before noon.

Firemen on duty at the fire station on Otsego Street stood at attention with their caps over their hearts and the breeze rippled the station flag slightly as the final whistle was sounded.

Fire departments from surroundi communities also attended the fune al.

CHIEF'S FUNERAL — Ilion firemen carry the casket of Fire Chief Richard Wright into Annunciation Church, for funeral ceremonies this morning. The funeral followed a procession through the village, with the chief's casket being carried on the department's pumper. State and county fire officials, as well as [illegible]e from various communities, rode or marched in the procession, which began at the C.J. Applegate and Sons Funeral Home. The procession stopped momentarily in front of the Ilion Fire Station, where a blast was sounded on the village fire horn, as church bells tolled throughout the village.
